Berets (Optional)

Black - The slope of the beret slants to the right and should be on an angle such that a continuation of the arm and hand would be in line with the slant while rendering a proper salute. The beret is worn so that the headband (edge binding) is straight across the forehead and level, 1 inch above the eyebrows. The emblem known as the “flash” is positioned level over the left eye and the excess beret material is draped over to the right ear, extending to at least the top of the ear, and no lower than the middle of the ear. Pathfinders should cut off the ends of the adjusting ribbon once proper size is obtained and secured with a knot and tuck the ribbon knot inside the edge binding at the back of the beret. Note: Special teams may have discretion as to the color of the beret.
